

Inside out

What do you notice when you climb into the bottle?

Explore the special inside out space of the Klein Bottle by stepping into it.

It is easy to become a little disoriented or to feel claustrophobic in the space as the outside turns into the inside of the bottle.

The Klein Bottle can be a confusing space to enter or exit because the outside surface is continuous with the inside surface. The emotional reaction to being caught inside a small space can range from a slight anxiousness to a strong feeling of panic.
